Athens Reports Capture Of Turkish Stronghold, But Statement Lacks Confirmation - Forcing Dardanelles.

London.-The northward drive of the Austro-German armies from Galicia into Poland is dally becoming more formidable, and England is purzled as to whether they propose to make their main effort in this direction, instead of maintaining a concentrated offensive to the eastward to force the Russians out of the southeast tip of Galicia.

Whatever the ultimate object is, the fighting along the Gnila Lipa river has not abated, and the latest Berlin official communication not only records progress in this section, but farther north in the are around Lemberg, as well as along what has now become the northern front, between the Vistula and Bug rivers.

25 Miles Across Frontier.

The Austro-German forces on this front are estimated at 2,000,000 men, and their progress has been rapid. They have crossed the forest fringing the Tanew river and are not far from the Zamosc fortress, 25 miles north of the Galician frontier.

Only 100 miles to the north is the great Russlan base Brest-Litovsk. linked with Warsaw by important rail-Polish capital.

The development of the Galician campaign has created a situation entirely unexpected by the Allies. A few months ago the Russians were at the Carpathian passes and during the spring months there were confident predictions both in England and France that Hungary would soon be

British Press Alarmed.

The British press has been optimistic for weeks that the Russians would turn and make a stand, but it now frankly concedes that the new invasion of Russia is serious. The papers, however, place faith in Russia's munitions campaign, much the same as the British public is relying upon David Lloyd-George's plan to so equip the British Army in France as ultimately to match the Germans in explosives and munitions, especially machine guns.

Rapid Advance From Galicia British Steamer Armenian Sunk By German Submarine.

Washington Institutes Inquiry To Determine Whether Steamer Was Under Charter To British Government.

Washington.-The Dominion freight liner Armenian, flying the British flag and carrying mules from Newport News, Va., to England, was torpedoed and sunk by the German submarine U-38 off Cornwall, England, and nearly a score of American muleteers aboard are reported lost, according to messages received by the State Depart ment from Consul John S. Armstrong Jr., at Bristol.

Twenty-nine men in all were lost and 10 injured

Washington Awaits Facts. The news created a sensation in official quarters, as it was the first case of loss of American lives since the sinking of the Lusitania. The gravity of the incident, however, and the action of the Washington government depends almost entirely on whether the Armenian was chartered by the British Government and was, in fact, a transport of war aboard which Americans would sail at their own risk or whether she was an unarmed merchantman.

In the latter case, even though carrying contraband, the ship could have been subjected to visit and search and those aboard transferred to ways and lying almost due east of the a place of safety before the destruction of the vessel was attempted.

In the absence of official information on these points officials declined to say what effect the sinking of the Armenian would have on pending negotiations between the United States and Germany.

Americans Took Risk. Offhand opinions among department officials pointed clearly to justification on the part of Germany in sinking the vessel. It was said unofficially that the horses and mules were consigned to the British Army; that the vessel was either an auxiliary of the British Navy or else chartered by the Government for the transportation of war munitions. Horses and mules are indisputably contraband, and are so held by all the belligerent governments.

Any American who has accepted service on such a ship or who might venture upon it as a passenger would do so, it was explained by officials, at his own risk and would have little if any redress through this Government for injuries sustained. In other words, It is not apparent tonight that the sinking of the Armenian will create any additional friction between the United States and Germany.

Military Men In London Now Looking For Important Engagement On the Blota Lipa River Assas Bombarded.

London.-Berlin reports the fall of the Galician town of Halicz and says that the Austro-Germans have crossed the Dniester river, which means that the five days' desperate rear-guard action by the Russians has ended in their retirement. However, the stubborn resistance of this flag of the forces of Grand Duke Nicholas, commander-in-chief of the Russian armies. has undoubtedly enabled him to reform his lines along the River Bug virually without interference.

The River San now takes the place of the Dniester as the scene of a sanguinary battle in the Russian effort to prevent the investment of Warsaw. Petrograd admits the retirement of the Russians to the River Gnila Lipa, Warring Factions Will Discuss United States Asks Prompt which is some 80 miles from the from tier and falls into the Dniester at Halicz, but military experts do not expect heavy fighting along that river.

State Highway Department Appor tions Available Cash For Thoroughfare Construction.

Harrisburg.-The State Highway Department has completed the appor-tionment of State-aid folds among the counties and has determined the amount available for State-aid highway construction during the years

1915 and 1916. The important factor in the apportionment of the State-ald money for this two-year period is that in each county the estimated amount necessary for the maintenance of State-aid highways previously constructed has been deducted.

State Highway Commissioner Cunningham and Chief Engineer Uhler take the view that it is folly for the State to expend money in State-aid construction only to see State-aid highways deteriorate from lack of care. Consequently, the maintenance division of the department has estimated the amount of money necessary for the maintenance of previously constructed State-aid highways during 1915 and 1916 in each county, and this amount is deducted from the sum available for State-aid construction.

The following table gives the baiance available for State-aid construction during 1915 and 1916, the amount estimated for maintenance during 1915 and 1916, and the net balance from which State-aid construction will be financed during the next two years: Balance Main-
